

Poem to Marina

by Amilcar de Castro- 1987

A blue tiger runs in the snow.
The fire panther cuts the sky in halves
But
The sea horse gallops in peace.

The waterfall is orange.

The yellow landscapes are seen upside down
like a reflection
of a mirror on the ground
There is a sphinx that awaits lost among mountains of light:
it is the reds that double up in colour.

Purple earth
Green sky
It is the landscapes of the soul which are doubled up in flowers.